AN INSURANCE COMPANY VALUES ALL-IN-ONE SOLUTIONS – AND PRACTICAL BENEFITS

When unisex is required

Full-service articles should firstly suit men and women and secondly fit as broad a target group as possible, from customers to employees. This was particularly important to an insurance company when it came to choosing a suitable umbrella.

More than a match

Which umbrella has a neutral appearance and is convincing in handling for women as well as men? They opted for the mini pocket umbrella FiligRain Only95, which weighs only 95g and is compact enough to fit into women's handbags as well as the inside pockets of men's jackets or coats. This small mini pocket umbrella can also be quickly stowed in a backpack or brief-case, making it absolutely suitable for business.

Always with you on your way

The employees of the insurance company immediately recognised the benefit of the mini pocket umbrella and frequently called for this full-service article. The mini umbrella is used especially in the mornings and evenings on the short distance between the office and the bus stop.

Showing corporate identity

With the branded FiligRain Only95, the insurance team is visibly committed to the company. This also catches the eye of passers-by.

TRADE FAIR VISITORS FIND THIS REALLY CLEVER

Example from practice

A COMPANY RETHINKS – AND SHOWS GREEN AWARENESS

At a trade fair, a medium-sized company wanted to do without unnecessary packaging and disposable bags. Sustainability and reusability were to be emphasised.

Umbrella and bag in one

A bag for information material is included: The pocket umbrella ÖkoBrella Shopping impressed visitors with its clever sleeve, which can be converted into a practical shopping bag. Trade fair visitors can pack brochures directly into the bag and the umbrella is simply placed in the extra compartment at the bottom – always ready to hand in case it rains on the evening of the fair.

Thinking of the environment

After the trade fair, umbrella and bag become shopping companions – more sustainable use is not possible. Further plus factors for the environment are the real wood handle and the polyester-pongee waterSAVE® cover material made of recycled plastics. The medium-sized company and its business partners could easily identify with so much practical sustainability.
